

WHAT TO KNOW ABOUT

ANXIETY

What is anxiety?

Anxiety is a common, normal reaction to stressful and uncertain situations. When anxiety is persistent, excessive, unrealistic, and impacts our functioning, it may be due to an anxiety disorder.

Symptoms of anxiety may be cognitive, emotional, and/or physical. They may include:

- Feeling nervous or on-edge
- Difficulty concentrating
- Having trouble sleeping
- Gastrointestinal problems
- Having an increased heart rate
- Sweating or trembling
- Feeling irritable
- Having a sense of impending danger or panic

Did you know?

Anxiety disorders are the most common type of mental illness in the US, affecting approximately 40 million adults every year.

Anxiety may be generalized or about specific things (i.e. test anxiety, social anxiety, specific phobias, etc.)

Anxiety can result from a complex set of risk factors, including genetics, brain chemistry, personality, and life events.

Anxiety disorders are considered highly treatable with counseling and/or medication.

Tips for Managing Anxiety

Practice accepting the things you cannot control, and replacing negative thoughts with more positive ones.

Take deep breaths. This can help calm the nervous system when it goes into "fight or flight" mode, our body's common response to fear. Recognize that these feelings are temporary.

Try not to rely on avoidance to cope. Often, what we are trying hardest to avoid will only continue to bother us. If we are willing to experience some temporary discomfort to face our fears, we often find our anxiety will dissipate.

Take care of your body: Limit caffeine and alcohol. Get plenty of sleep. Eat well-balanced meals. Exercise regularly- it really can help!
